This is the first showing of a collection made by the British artist Graham Day.

Born in central London in 1946 Day has combined his varied interests of scholarship, craftsmanship, collecting and lecturing to produce 20 works that all have the same message attributed to the Roman philosopher, statesman and dramatist Seneca:

'If you wished to be loved, love'

Made over the past 10 years, each piece proclaims the proverb in a different language and its script each made in a wide variety of techniques and materials.

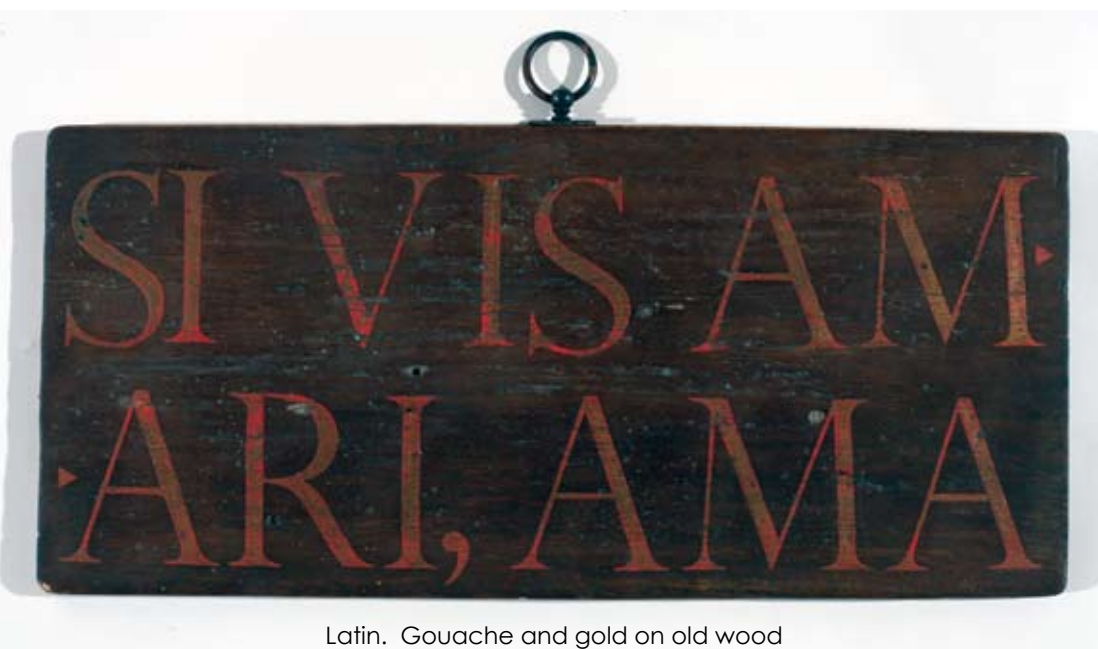

Day has exhibited consistently throughout the UK, Europe, the Middle East and the US. His work can be found in numerous public collections including The British Library, The British Museum, The Victoria & Albert Museum.
